TO CLEAN A BLACK SILK DRESS.—Take one quart of water and put into it an old kid glove and boil it down to one pint; then take a sponge or soft piece of flannel and sponge it over; then iron it on the wrong side while it is damp. it will look bright and new and will be quite stiff. For light-colored silk take a white glove.

PATIENCE.

If your foes torment and taunt you,
If your fears harass and haunt you,
If the world seems dark and dreary—
"Wait a wee and dinna weary."

If the hopes you fondly cherish,
Dashed to earth, seem sure to perish,
Wait with patience till to-morrow—
No man's life is wholly sorrow.

If your plans don't work to please you,
If the Fates should vex and tease you—
If you can, be bright and cheery,
"Wait a wee and dinna weary."

If God gives you leisure take it,
'Tis his gift—a blessing make it;
Faith in him no whit abating,
Serve his will by patient waiting

Or, if work, instead of leisure,
Pain, instead of longed-for pleasure—
Howsoe'r your lot seems dreary,
"Wait a wee and dinna weary."

A FRENCH DETECTIVE'S RUSE.

Even as the great clown, Grimaldi, was the prince and father of his imitators, so was the great Parisian detective, Vidocq, the prince of detectives.

The phenomenal alacrity which he exhibited in penetrating the motives and methods of crimes, and in unearthing criminals, has never been equaled.

In boyhood a gamin of the docks, he became a dialect performer in the concert halls of Paris and gained a livlihood in a hundred different grades of employment before he turned his attention to the detection of crime.

At the time of his greatest fame as a detective, one Moirellet exercised the duplex functions of sexton and chanter of the fashionable church of Livry in the suburbs of Paris.

He was a shrewd and, to all seeming, a very pious man.

When those southern pillagers, the Cossacks, were expected in Paris, the people of the city and suburbs bethought themselves to conceal their most valuable effects.

The curate of Livry was anxious to remove the church plate and his own to a place of safety, and, being an imbecile old man, intrusted his valuables to Moirellet to be secreted

M. Senart, a friend of the cure and a jeweler of Paris, becoming advised of the cure's action also intrusted one hundred thousand crowns' value of precious stones to Moirellet, that they might be buried secretly and securely in the forest of Bondy.

A fortnight later Moirellet appeared before the cure, pale and distracted, to announce that the Cossacks had certainly passed through the wood and dug up the precious deposit.

So good was the man's reputation, so sorrowful his protestations, and so honest the method of his tale, that the old cure believed it at once; but M. Senart called to his counting-room Vidocq.

"What kind of a man is this Moirellet?" asked the detective.

"Is he married?"

"Yes,"

"Wife handsome—dressy?"

"She is very pretty and is fond of dress."

"A native of Paris?"

"She was born and dwelt in her maiden-hood in the suburb of Andrea,"

"Good. Moirellet shall be called aside from the church to-morrow morning and quietly conveyed to the prison. I will at once set forth to Andrea and learn what I can of his wife's family and her early life."

"But there is absolutely no proof warranting the arrest of Moirellet!"

"It is my business to find proof."

The next morning Moirellet was quietly conveyed to prison.

His fair wife answered the summons,

"Marie!—and how goes it with my little schoolmate, Marie of Andrea?" exclaimed the young man, grasping her hand impetuously.

"Pardon me, sir, but you have escaped my recollection."

"You do not recognize me? But, tell me, surely you are Marie Gabrille, the grocer's daughter, who dwelt in childhood at Andrea?"

"I am, sir."

"Then you are the Marie I played with—and you do not recognize me? Fie, Marie! ha! ha! ha! And do you dwell here—are you married?"

"Ay, sir."

"And to the great and good man, too, I warrant, if your beautiful face and womanly graces have met their due?"

"A good man, truly, sir—but if you will be pleased to enter and make yourself known to me, we may converse more intelligibly."

The fair hostess soon after entered the cozy parlor of her home bearing a silver bottle-tray, and pouring forth a glass of wine to the young man, said:

"And, now, sir, kindly inform me what my old schoolmate's name is?"

"Ha! ha! and you don't know me, Marie? You know that we men love to quiz the ladies? Look well into my face, my eyes. I am one who not only played with you, Marie, in those dear, golden days of the past, but one who felt for you the tenderest regard. Can it be possible you cannot recall me?"

"I look at you well, sir, and think over all of my young playmates, and yet I can not name you. Keep me not in agony of ignorance—who are you?"

"A midshipman in the navy. Is that not a hint?" returned the young man, holding his glass for more wine.

"It is no hint that I can fathom," returned the lady, refilling his glass.

"Ay, but I have told you wrong—I am a lieutenant in the navy," said the young man, draining the goblet.

"But your name—your name?" demanded the lady, impatiently, again filling the empty glass.

"All I have spoken is wrong, Marie," quoth the young man, appearing the least bit intoxicated. Behold in me the captain of the battle ship Havre—Pere Molliere."

The woman's face reddened. and her eyes flashed angrily, as she sprang forward and caught away the empty glass from the young man's hand.

"Why, Marie!" he gasped, in astonishment; "do you think I have lied to you—that I am not Pere Molliere?"

"It is not that," returned his excited hostess, shrewdly, "but that, if you should drink another draught of my wine, I fear that you would turn out to be the commodore of a fleet; and that finally, at the last drinking, you would make me believe that you were the lord high admiral of all the seas."

And she pointed suggestively toward the door.

"Marie Gabrielle," said the unwelcome guest, in tones of authority, and rising impressively to his feet, "it had been well for you had you long since shown the true Pere Molliere the door. He who was your schoolmate, who ran from home, joined the navy, deserted after robbing several of his comrades, who, to cap a life of crime, at length came to Paris, donned the robes of sanctity to cover his serpentile trail of misdeeds past—who had been false to everything save his boyhood's love; who secretly induced you to leave Andrea, wed you; who is at this moment in prison for appropriating the jewels of M Senart and the cure of Livry; and who has confessed that you are his accomplice. Tell me, Marie Gabrielle, where are those stolen valuables hidden, or you are my prisoner! I am Vidocq."

The glass dropped from the woman's hand and, uttering a piercing shriek, she fell fainting upon the floor.

Soon after a squad of detectives reached the home, but without avail, and the woman declaring her innocence, and the ignorance of the missing valuables, was conveyed to prison.

That afternoon Moirellet was stripped and put to the "pump," that a confession might be extorted from him.

The "pump" was a water-tight cell in the yard of the prison into which a stream of water constantly flowed, which could only be discharged through the pump.

The only means by which the unfortunate inmate could prevent drowning was by working incessantly at the pump.

For three hours Moirellet endured the enforced labor, but when at length the water was turned off, and he was removed from the cell in an exhausted state, he still protested his entire innocence, and averred that he was not Pere Molliere.

That night, a coarsely-dressed German youth, vulgarly inebriated, was thrust into the apartment of the prison in which Moirellet was confined—much to Moirellet's disgust.

The German, however, dropped in one corner of the cell and slept soundly all night, only at times muttering as if in his dreams such sentences as: "Vot I care nohow." "I got dot gold sure." „Vot could dey prove?" "Schmid, shake hands mit myself—you was all right."

In the morning Moirellet gave the turnkey a piece of silver and requested that he be furnished with a veal cutlet for breakfast "done well brown."

"Und gif me also a preakfast of veal cudlet done vell, Schmidt," said the German, also giving the money.

"What do you mean by a veal cutlet done well, Schmidt?" demanded the amused turnkey.

"Vas dot not right? Dis shentleman he asked for a veal cudlet vell done Brown, und I ask for one vell done Schmidt? Vas you not haf gif dot name, ven you sends de order?"

Moirellet and the turnkey laughed at the German's stupidity, but soon after, when the prisoners were eating their food alone, the German said:

"You laugh at me—bud I was dot man vat should laugh. Dond dink I vas a fool because I vas Dutch. You vas a shentleman, und I vas a tief. I robs a Brussian officer of all his money. I got it. I go—hush!—dis very night avay from Vrance."

"How do you mean?" asked Moirellet, for the first time looking toward the boor without disdain.

"Hush! I vas a tief, I dole you. I knows all de tiefs—all der brisons—look here!"

And the Dutchman, with a sly wink, removed a neatly hidden slide in the ole of his heavy shoe, disclosing three ingeniously wrought skeleton keys and a small vial.

"And do you mean, Schmidt, to break prison?"

"You shall see. I git my gold safe—I git safe out of Vrance. Dey vould not catch me now, but I was trunk."

"Then if you will aid me, away with you, I know of a vast treasure buried in the forest of Bondy. A third of it shall be yours."

At midnight the German began work. Opening the cell door with one of his keys he peered forth into the dimly-lighted corridor.

Saturating a handkerchief with the fluid from the vial, he soon had rendered that functionary insensible to noise.

Taking the keys that hung at his belt, he opened the door leading to the main hallway of the prison.

Passing swiftly to the prison's front door, he opened it.

Waiting and listening until the gendarme had passed upon his beat, the two men suddenly darted from the prison, crossed the dark street and escaped.

The German led the way through round-about streets to the suburbs of Paris, and ere daybreak they had arrived in the forest of Bondy.

It was a dark night, but Moirellet readily found the spot where the treasure was buried, and, using sharpened sticks, the men soon unearthed the two large tin boxes containing it.

As they did so, a rustling in the forest leaves caused them to look up.

A score of gendarmes, with swords drawn, stood in a circle about them, flashing the flare of their dark lanterns in their faces.

"Pierre Molliere, alias Moirellet, you are my prisoner," said the German, placing his hand upon Moirellet's shoulder,

"And you are—"

"Vidocq,"

"My God!" cried the terrified culprit, "who would have thought it—you looked so clownish."

The prisoner was sentenced to six years' close confinement. Vidocq was overloaded with compliments by M. Senart and the cure, who presented him with 5,000 francs for having so deftly recovered their lost treasures.

Song of the Icy Sea.

The song of the icy sea is a very peculiar one and can scarcely be described so as to convey any clear idea of its nature. It is not loud, yet it can be heard to a great distance—it is neither a surge nor a swash, but a kind of slow, crashing, groaning, shrieking sound, in which sharp, silvery tinklings mingle with the low, thunderous undertone of a rushing tempest. It impresses one with the idea of nearness and distance at the same time and also with that of immense forces in conflict. When this confused fantasia is heard from afar through the stillness of an Arctic night the effect is strangely weird and almost solemn—as if it were the distant hum of an active living world breaking across the boundaries of silence, solitude and death.

On June 25 the steam whaler North Star, the first ship of the season to reach Point Barrow, steamed up a long lead, which ran in a northeast direction, about six miles from the shore, until she came opposite the signal station, when she made fast to the stationary ice. On the 8th of July she made her way into a small inlet in the shore ice, about three miles from shore, with the hope that the projecting ice capes, grounded in fifteen fathoms, would withstand the pressure and protect her until the current should change or a favorable opportunity for making her escape occur. It soon, however, became certain that this hope was vain, for the pack kept on its way slowly, steadily, but as relentless as fate. The ice capes were ground into powder and melted away before the resistless pressure as if they were not a straw's weight, instead of millions of tons; the grounded mass round the ship soon followed and the ill-fated Star was caught and ground to pieces, as if she were no stronger than a child's card-board toy.

Never was destruction more complete. Her great masts and massive ribs of solid timber cracked and broke as if they were pipestems, and in an hour from the pressure first reached her nothing remained of the great ship that looked so beautiful and strong in the bright sunshine a few minutes before but two or three boats, a little hard bread, a few bags of flour and forty-eight homeless men. What assistance could be given was furnished by the party at the signal station. All that had been saved from the wreck was brought on shore, tents and provisions were furnished to the shipwrecked men until the 14th, when the whalers Bowhead and Belvidere came up and took them off to be distributed through the rest of the fleet. On the 15th the pack had nearly all disappeared and the barrier of anchored ice was then about two miles wide, but it broke up rapidly and on the 22d no ice was visible.

Philippina Welser.

In the Silver chapel is the tomb and marble effigy of that beautiful woman, Philippina Welser, of Innspruck. Her eyes were divine, it is said dark blue, her hair golden chestnut, and the skin so transparent that "the red wine could be seen as it ran down the lovely throat." In the photograph her beautiful face rises up like a lovely flower, out of a high ruff, a superb jeweled collar with pendant jewels is bound close about the high-mounting neck of the rich dark velvet robe; the hair is parted and rolled back from a high, broad, intelligent forehead that has nothing Greek about it, but is a clear, good Anglo-Saxon brow; on the head is a net cap made of some gold rosettes, with pearls and a jeweled border around it. The arch of the delicate eyebrows is perfect; the eyes have a bewitching expression that is both courageous and pleading; she had a shapely nose, a lovely mouth and chin, and an expression of dignity, refinement, and gentleness. Perfect womanly loveliness characterizes this pictured semblance of a woman who was the most beautiful of her day, and whose romantic history has inspired many a poet and dramatist. She was the daughter of a rich Augsburg banker, Ferdinand, nephew of Charles V. fell madly in love with her, and they were married secretly. She was the mother of two sons, whose portraits you can see at Schloss Ambras, the charming castle on the Mittlegebarge mountain slopes, a short distance from Innspruck, where Phillipina and Ferdinand spent their long, happy married life. The Emperor Ferdinand was naturally very angry at this marriage, but during one of his visits to Innspruck, the lovely woman came with her two young boys and begged him to forgive her. History tells how he had only to look at Philippina to justify his son. When Ferdinand died she lost her best and most powerful friend. Her mother-in-law was forever taunting her. So one morning the poor woman lay down in her bath tub and drowned herself, in order that her dear husband might marry a royal wife. You can see the bath-room at Schloss Ambras but the custode denies the legend, I am happy to say, and I am unwilling to believe it, Her husband, the Count of Tyrol, mourned her loss. Tradition says he was frantic with grief, and built the beautiful Siberne chapel, where each lie buried. True, he married again only two years after her death, and his second wife was one of his own rank, the daughter of Duke William of Mantua; but he never lived again at Schloss Ambras.

Speed of Engines.—A new speed indicator, called the Strathmograph, for indicating the speed of locomotives, has been introduced on the Hanoverian railroads. By it the engineer can read from a scale the actual speed of his engine at any time, besides which a complete record of the trip is kept on a slip of paper.

True Disinfectants.

Many a so-called disinfectant is employed to-day in a certain solution when it does not posess any value whatever under the circumstances. If it is really our intention to disinfect wounds we must be certain, at least, that we will achieve our object with the remedy we use; if such is not the case, we only irritate without doing good. The Imperial Board of Health in Berlin has published a number of experiments which have been made by Dr. R. Koch, with the view of establishing the real value of many so-called disinfectants. It would lead us too far to give the whole procedure employed to ascertain the facts mentioned, and we will, therefore confine ourselves to giving the more important results of the investigations of this celebrated physician. Most surgeons have been satisfied to wash their hands and clean their instruments with a two per cent solution of carbolic acid. Such a solution is almost inert, and a five per cent solution is necessary to achieve the desired objects. But what is the most interesting is the fact that carbolic acid dissolved in oil or water prove itself totally inert. What do our surgeons who still make use of so called carbolized oil say to that? Koch found that carbolic acid, when dissolved in oil or in alcohol, had not the slightest influence on the vitality of any of the micrococci or bacilli. Concerning sulphurous acid, it was found to be powerless against spores bacilli and mocrococci, when exposed to the fumes in a box, were killed within twenty minutes, but were very little influenced, or not at all, when exposed to the fumes in a room at the usual temperature.

Chloride of zinc showed itself just as harmless. A five per cent solution exerted absolutely no influence on the spores of anthrax, notwithstanding the same has been exposed to the action of the remedy for a period of thirty days. Of other drugs, the spores of the bacilli were killed by chlorine water, fresh prepared; two per cent bromine water, one per cent aqueous solution of permanganate of potassium, one per cent osmic acid, within one day; formic acid, four days; ol. terebinth, five days; solution of chloride of iron, four days; one per cent arsenious acid, one per cent quinine (water with muriatic acid), two per cent muriatic acid within ten days; ether within thirty days. Inert or possessing very little influence: distilled water, alcohol, glycerine, oil, sulphur-carbon, chloroform, benzol, petroleum-ether, ammonia, concentrated solution of common salt, bromide and iodide of potassium, one per cent; sulphuric acid, sulphate of zinc and copper alum, one per cent; permanof potash, chromic acid, the chromates and bichromates, chlorate of potash, five per cent; acetic acid, five per cent; tannic acid, five per cent; benzoate of sodium, five per cent; quinine (two per cent in water 40, alcohol 60), iodine (one per cent in alcohol), thymol (five per cent in alcohol), salicylic acid (five per cent in alcohol, two per cont in oil).

But as, for purposss of disinfection, the microorganism must be killed, and in the shortest possible period, and the effect of retarding the development of the spores (antiseptic) is not sufficient, only the following remedies can, according to Koch's experiments, be said to be of value; corrosivesublimate, chlorine, bromine iodine. Bromine in form of vapor is, as concerns rapidity of action, superior to chlorine and iodine.

The Red-Brick Order.

In its own way red brick is a very good thing indeed. It is warm in color; it is domestic; it sorts well with Dutch and English notions of home life. But it is not an architectural panacea. In London red brick is a simple necessity of the situation; no other good building material can be had within a convenient distance, and for all purposes of ordinary house-building brick or nothing is the Hobson's choice of the limited householder. Under these circumstances, our architectural authorities of late years, turning over in their heads the question of sound, honest material for London dwellings, have wisely repudiated the time-honored maxim that Queen Anne is dead and have revived Queen Anne in all her ruddy glory from Fitzjohn avenue at Hampstead down to the humbler roofs of Bedford Park at Turnham Green. Being compelled to build in brick they have sensibly decided to adopt a style based entirely upon brick as its material, instead of copying styles based upon solid stone, which is unattainable within the limits of what the Saturday Review will not allow us to call the metropolitan district. But a curious result of this accident or misfortune of the London basin has now begun to show itself in many provincial regions where good building stone is cheap and abundant. Visitors to London have got into their heads the notion that brick is fashionable, and they have accordingly set about building brick houses, brick schools and brick public offices in places where stone is quite as cheap and far more desirable. Anxious to be in the height of the architectural mode, they have taken to putting up Queen Anne erections where Queen Anne ought never to have shown her royal red face at al. Instead of building houses of the same strictly domestic type in local stone and in styles adapted to stone, they seem to fancy that if they adopt the new æsthetic fancies at all they must adopt them in their entirety, material and all. In fact, they want to reverse the boast of Mæcenas and Baron Haussmann, and to leave a city of brick where they found a city of marble.

A Romantic Life

In an humble farm house in Fabius, Onondaga County, in 1819, Malvina M. Dean was born to a career which verges on romance. Her mother died when she was eight years old, and then until she was seventeen she lived with an aunt in Weedsport, N. Y. Then she went to New York City. She was an uncultured country girl, but rather prepossessing. She took the fancy of Alexander Bessie, of Montreal, a traveling salesman, whom she married. Bessie concluded to go to South America with a small stock of goods, and his wife, who had operated the Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine, then but a rude invention, induced the company to let her take six of them on credit. The ship in which they sailed for Rio de Janeiro was wrecked, but after much suffering Mr. and Mrs. Bessie reached their destination, saving three of the sewing machines. She commenced to canvass for them. Her success was wonderful. They were the first sewing machines in Brazil, and she was soon able to make an order for 100 of them, which sold for fabulous prices among the rich Brazilians. Bessie did not like the country, and when he announced that he was going to return to New York his wife refused to keep his company, and they separated and became divorced. For twenty years she continued to sell sewing machines and accumulated a fortune.

Senor Joseph Gomez Olivera Guimaraes was a rich Portuguese gentleman, who trafficked in diamonds and rosewood in Rio de Janeiro. He married Mrs. Bessie, coming to the house of Mr. Wheeler, of the sewing maching firm, at Bridgeport, Conn., for that purpose. They went to Lisbon, where the Senor built the first and only horse railway. He also owned much other valuable property. In about six years he died and made his wife sole heir to all his possessions, both in Brazil and Portugal, She returned to this country in 1875 and bought considerable property in Oswego, where she decided to live. In the Riverside Cemetery of that town she caused to be built a magnificent monument in memory of her husband. It was imported from Italy. The soft and delicate marble is already crumbling from the effect of this sterner climate.

Her property in Rio de Janeiro was left in the management of Senor Antonio Ribero Seabra, a handsome and roystering young Brazilian, who had been Senor Guimaraes' clerk. In 1878 she went to Brazil and married him, and they returned together to Oswego. Seabra, who could not speak English, came to Syracuse to learn the language, and his conduct here was reported to have been more consonant with foreign than American marital customs. In 1880 he induced his wife to go to Lisbon with him. Arriving there, he sought to establish a domicile in order to acquire control of her estate under the domiciliary laws of that country. It is said that he possessed himself of her valuable diamonds and was in a fair way to secure her property there and in Brazil, and that he did actually obtain possession of rents from her property in the city of New York. Therefore she left him and returned to the United States in 1881, and began an action for divorce for principal cause, and also an action to recover her New York rentals. Seabra entered a counter suit for divorce against her, alleging the most scandalous assertions as to her conduct, These contests have now been ended by the death of Mme. Seabra at Oswego on Monday, at the age of sixty-three years. It is said that her estate, valued at about $400,000, will revert to her family relatives, she having no issue.

The Lime Process.

A new and interesting method, called the "lime process," has lately been discovered in England for breaking down coal in a mine without running any of the risks incomparable from blasting. The process, which is said to be a decided succes, is briefly this: Holes are drilled in the solid coal at intervals near the roof, and into these are inserted "cartridges" of highly compressed, very caustic lime. The cartridges are three inches in diameter, and of any desired length, but they are made with a groove into which a small iron pipe can be inserted. The hole being filled and the pipe inserted, it is plugged or tamped to prevent the escape of steam, and, a number being ready, a small force-pump is attached by a flexible tube to the pipe and the the water forced in, which, escaping, wets the lime. The pipe is then closed by a stopcock, and the same operation repeated at the next hole. The first result is the conversion of the water into steam, which itself tends to force the coal down, but after a time the lime swells with irrestible power, and, the sprags being removed, the coal comes down in large blocks. The operation of watering the lime is performed very rapidly, a few minutes sufficing to "fire" any required number of cartridges.

A Notable Day.

The 15th of October is a noteworthy date, being the 300th anniversary of the introduction of the Gregorian calendar. It was the work of Pope Gregor XIII., who in the year 1582, being struck by the fact that the vernal equinox, which at the time of the Council of Nice, A. D. 325, had occurred on March 21, then happened on the 10th, caused ten days to be thrown out of the current year—the day after Thursday, Oct. 4, being declared Oct 15. This alteration of the style was immediately adopted in all the Roman Catholic countries of Europe, and even in England an attempt, of which little notice has been taken, was made to introduce it two years later. On the 16th of March, 1584-5 a bill was read for the first time in the House of Lords entitled "An act giving her Majesty authority to alter and make a new calendar according to the calendars used in other countries." It was read a second time on the 18th of the same month, and then the project was shelved for nearly two centuries. It was not till the year 1752, in the reign of George II., that the Gregorian calendar was adopted in England, and by that time it had become necessary to drop eleven days. The 3d of September was declared the 14th, so that the month only contained nineteen days.

Monkeys at Freedom.

The manners and customs of monkeys are too commonly judged from those of their kind retained in confinement. Monkeys are born in almost as helpless a condition as are human beings. For the first fortnight after birth, they pass their time in being nursed, in sleeping, and looking about them. When about six weeks old, the baby begins to need more substantial nutriment than milk and is taught to provide for itself, Its powers are speedily developed; and in a few weeks its agility is most surprising. The mother's fondness for her offspring continues; she devotes all her cares to its comfort and education; and should it meet with an untimey end, her grief is so intense as frequently to cause her own death. The young ones are seen to sport and gambol with one another in the presence of their mother, who sits ready to give judgement and punish misdemeanors. When any one is found guilty of foul-play or malicious conduct towards another of the family, the parent interfers by seizing the young criminal by the tail, which she holds fast with one hand while she boxes his ears with the other. Their parental affection for their young offspring is shown by teaching them to select food, to exert themselves in jumping from bough to bough, and then in taking more extensive leaps from tree to tree; encouraging them by caresses when timorous, and menacing and even beating them when refractory. Knowing by instinct the malignity of the snakes, they are most vigilant in their destruction; they seize them when asleep by the neck, and running to the nearest flat stone, grind the head by a strong friction on the surface, frequently looking at it and grinning at their progress. When convinced that the venemous fangs are destroyed, they toss the reptile to their young to play with. In the case of the approach of human enemies, an alarm is given by one of the tribe that danger is at hand, In an instant the youngster springs on to its mother's body, and grasps it with such tenacity, that no jerk can possibly loosen its hold. According to numerous accounts, the large species of monkeys, in their native forests, construct huts for themselves and families nearly similar in form to those of certain Africans; or else they take possession of those abandoned by the natives. They also make beds of leaves; but according to some accounts, these are only for the females and young, and most of the time the males sleep outside, It is asserted that these African monkeys maintain among themselves a republican form of government, in which the strictest order and subordination are enforced, When they travel from place to place, they are under the command of particular chieftains which are always the oldest and most powerful of the tribe, and maintain a severe kind of discipline upon the march. When they are engaged up on any very daring raid, monkeys place sentinels upon the neighboring trees and heights, to give them timely warning of approaching danger; and should they be surprised through any fault of these sentinels, the luckless individual is either severely punished, or in some cases, it is declared, is put to death for his neglect of the public safety. According to some accounts, these raiders will form a long chain, extending from the field or garden they are plundering, towards their own place of abode; and toss the fruits of of their robbery from one to the other, till collected together and deposited in a place of safety. By this co-operative system they are enabled to carry off a much larger booty than they could if each one only took sufficient for himself. When leaving the scene of their plunder, however, each takes off with him as much as he can carry. Fruit and eggs are their chief food; in a state of nature, it is believed, they will not touch the flesh of warm-blooded animals; nor in a state of captivity, unless cooked.

Expenses of Churches.

New York's total church expenses foot up about $6,500,000 each year. The figures include the pay of pastors, the building fund, the cost of running the various churches and the outlay for missions and all benevolent purposes. The Roman Catholics lead the list, They have some seventy-five churches, and their total annual outlay is estimated at $2,250,000, half of which goes in charity. The Episcopalians come next. They have seventy-nine churches and chapels, with 25,000 communicants. Their outlay is $1,150,000—$600,000 for church expenses and $550,000 for benevolent purposes. After the Episcopalians come the Presbyterians, with sixty churches, having a membership of 21,500 and an expense list of $705,000, something over half of which is for "church purposes," The Methodists have sixty-five churches, but their membership is only 13,300, and their total expenses are set down at $243,000—$200,000 being for church purposee. The Baptists, with thirty-six churches and a membership of 12,700, expend nearly $100,000 more than the Methodists, their entire outlay being $327,000. The Dutch Reformed and the Lutheran combined have forty-one churches, with a membership of 16,000, and their expenses foot up to $363,000. The Congregationalists have only six churches, with 2,440 members, and a total expense list of $96,000. Next come the Jews, and they make a very good showing. They have nineteen tabernacles, with a declared membership of 3,000 (the regular attendance though is at least four times that number), and an expense of over $300,000.

Occasion may be the bugle call that summons an army to battle, but the blast of a bugle can never make soldiers or win victories.

The Sunbury Democrat, determined to be in time, respectfully submits the following imposing list of candidates to the next Democratic National Convention. The Democrat does not indicate its own preference, but thinks the convention should be able to nominate a good ticket from this list and not fumble around in the mist for dark horses :

FOR PRESIDENT :
Samuel J. Tilden, of New York,
Governor Cleveland, "
Samuel J. Randall, of Pennsylvania,
W. S. Hancock, "
Thomas A. Biyard, of Delaware,
Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana,
William S. Holman. "
Allen G. Thurman of Ohio,
FOR VICE PRESIDENT
Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana,
Ex-Senator Mc Donald, "
Ex-Gov. Palmar, of Illinois,
Gov. Stoneman, of California,
Gov. Grant, of Calorado,
A. S. Walters, of Connecticut,
W. U. Hensel, of Pennsylvania.

A PRESIDENT's message is about the greatest bore on a poor, harrassed country editor there is. It is worse than the elephant which a New Jersey fellow won at a shooting match. One does not know at all how to handle or what to do with it. To publish it entire is utterly out of the question—squarely impossible. Moreover the few who care to read it entire have done so from the dailies long before their weekly paper can publish it. Cut off the head and you have a shapeless mass of words calculated more to provoke than to please your readers ; lop off the tail and you make matters worse instead of improving them, and if you dissect the body you destroy all symmetry and proportion. It were indeed a real pity to treat Arthur's message so rudely, for the poor fellow had agony more than enough to frame and fit it together, and even when complete it seems to disappoint all and suit none.

No ; we will not annoy our readers with the President's message or any part of it. Our space is fully taken up with other, and as we feel satisfied more acceptable matter.

Senator Butler Re-elected.

COLUMBIA, S. C. December 5th.—General M. C. Butler was to-day re-elected by the General Assembly United States Senator. Colonel H. S. Thomson was inaugurated Governor. He delivered an address touchng on national as well as home affairs.

The greenback vote in Indiana having increased 143 in two years, it is estimated that at the same ratio of increase, that party will take control of the State in 1957.

The Democratic State Commitee will meet at Harrisburg on the third Monday in January, for organization under the new rules adopted by the last Democratic State Convention.

The suggestion that Mr. Curtin be urged for the speaker-ship of the House meets with more favor as it grows older. The Lewistown Free Press is the last of the many journals of the district who approve of it.—Clinton Democrat.

We consider it rather unseasonable at this time if not directly unwise, to urge our distinguished member for the position of Speaker. If done merely to "compliment" our grand old Ex-Governor it may be all right, but certainly does no good. We very much doubt whether Gov. Curtin has any desires in that direction himself. With all his great abilities he does not claim to be a trained parlimentarian, a la Randall, that anybody knows of, and perhaps lacks the physical strength so necessary for a Speaker to possess.

Gov. Curtin's natural and proper sphere will be as leader of the house—and don't any of you forget it. There his high order of statesmenship, coupled with his brilliant and masterly powers of oratory will be of more service to the country than in the Speaker's chair and there he can hit Speaker Kypher oftener and harder than he could as presiding officer of the House.

THE figures given by the treasurer of the United States in his report for the year 1882 are strong arguments in favor of the reduction of taxation. The total increase in net revenue of the government for the present year over 1881 is $42,742,957.71. This shows an increase from customs of $22,251,064,28 ; from internal revenue, $11,233,209,84 ; from sales of public lands, $2,581,277,20, and from miscellaneous sources $6,707,415. The net expenditures decrease from $260,712,887 to $257,981,440, a reduction of $2,741.447. Apparently the whole internal revenue system may be wiped out and still leave the government plenty of money to defray all necessary expenses. If civil service reform is to be practically established, there can be no reason why four thousand office holders should be retained at a cost of five millions of dollars per year for the purpose of collecting needless revenues, nor can the people be longer expected to bear the burdens of unnecessary taxation.—Patriot.

We agree entirely with the Patriot in all but one point. Let the entire internal revenue system be "wiped out" from our statute books at one swoop, excepting only the tax on whiskey and tobacco. Whiskey drinkers, smokers and chewers ought to pay the bigger part of the balance of our national debt without grumbling.

THE TENURE OF THE OFFICERS.—The Governor and Lieutenant Governor elected in Pennsylvania on the 7th of November will hold office for four years ; the Secretary of Internal Affairs for three years, and the Judge of the Supreme Court for twenty-one years. Twenty-eight Congressmen were chosen to serve two years ; twenty-five State Senators to serve four years, and the entire membership of the lower House for two years.

HE WILL BE LONELY.—The Greenbackers will have a single Representative in the Forty-eight Congress, in the person of Hon. Charles N. Brumm, of the thirteenth district of Pennsylvania. In the present Congress there are nine Greenbackers. There is one thing that won't worry Brumm—attending party caucuses.

California politicians express the opinion that the Chinese restrictive law can be easily amended by congress so that its constitutionality should be indisputable. They therefore oppose the suggestion of the national labor congress that the law should be tested in the courts. Imperfect as the law is it has had the effect of almost stopping Chinese emigration to this country. Moreover hundreds of Chinamen have departed for their own land, and have not returned to this country.

GROVER CLEVELAND, Governor-elect of New York, in addition to his Democratic majority against boss rule seems to have several characteristics in common with Governor-elect Pattison. He has declined the proffered services of a military company on inaugnration day and expresses an earnest wish that there shall be as little ceremony on that occasion as possible. This seems to be a year in which Democratic Governors are thoroughly democratic.

Not That Kind of Legislature.

It must be understood that the Legislature isn't going to give a roll of Brussels carpet, an oil painting, a case of penknives and enough shaving mugs to start a barber shop to every member. It must stop at the shaving mugs, anyhow.

A Washington special says : There is very general unanimity among the republicans in the house in charging the defeat of the party to Robeson's profligate leadership and his river and harbor plunder. The defeated republican members are very bitter against Robeson, and he will receive many hard blows from his own household if he attempts to lead this session.

Gov. Pattison will be inaugurated, Tuesday, Jan. 16th. The legislsture meets Tuesday, Jan. 2nd, just two weeks before the inauguration.

THE PHILADELPHIA TIMES

The people generally get that which they make a market for. They demanded better newspapers, and within the last few years journalism has made rapid strides. THE TIMES, which, from the day of its first issue, took place in the front rank of progressive journalism, has kept along at the double-quick step, and at this time is a better newspaper than ever. It is a journal that never sleeps and never takes a holiday. As there are 365 days, so there are 365 issues of THE TIMES in a year. The week-day edition of THE TIMES is of four pages, being in a form suitable for the busy man or the busy woman. The Sunday edition, of eight pages contains a great deal of the best miscellany as well as all the news. The editorial strength of THE TIMES need not be dwelt upon—the fact that it is quoted more than any other paper in America is sufficient evidence of its excellence in that direction. Nor need the typographical superiority be more than mentioned—for it is widely known as "the handsomest paper in the country."

THE PHILADELPHIA WEEKLY TIMES

Covers a distinct field. Into THE WEEKLY goes the cream of the daily issues and at the same time it contains matter especially adapted to the wants of readers in every part of America. It circulates, as a first-class family journal, in every State and Territory, and it has subscribers in every part of the world. The leading feature of THE WEEKLY is the "ANNALS OF THE WAR." This department embraces chapters of unwritten history, contributed by prominent actors in the War of the Rebellion, and it has become a recognized depository of such matters whether from Northern or Southern sources. The ANNALS will be kept fully up to the high standard of former years.

—Daniel Noll, residing near Lewisburg, is the acknowledged weather prophet of Union county.

—Our friend barber Springer is confined to bed by pneumonia. Hope he may soon be out again.

—Our old friend Samuel Otto left us the other day for Burbank, Ohio, where he expects to spend the winter.

—Logansville has a flourshing Literary Society—just what every town of that size and even smaller ones should have.

—Money sold for 20¼ per cent. premium for permanent loan at the meeting of the B. & L. Association on Monday evening.

—The Union County Teacher's institute meets at Mifflinburg next Monday. Prof. Kurzenknabe will run the musical department.

—D. A. Musser & J. P. Gephart have retired from the lumber business in the mountains. The extensive operations near Paddy's Tunnel are now operated by Whitmer, Walls & Co.

—We heard the Rev. E J. Wolf, D. D., of the Theological Seminary at Gettysburg, deliver a most excellent sermon in the Lutheran church, Lewisburg, last Sunday evening.

Inventors and Patentees should send for instructions, reasonable terms, references, &c., to Edson Brothers, Solicitors of Patents, Washington, D. C. who furnish the same without charge. Edson Brothers is a well known and successful firm of large experience, having been established in 1866. tf

—Mr. J. A. Limbert our accomodating mail carrier on the Coburn—Woodward route herety informs his many friends and patrons along the line that he will carry packages of almost all kinds and sizes at very reasonable rates. Thanking them for their past favors he respectfully solicits their further patronage.

—M. S. Fiedler, executor, will sell valuable real estate of the late John Hess, deceased, Thursday, Decbr. 28th next. The farm is reputedly the finest and best in Haines township, and the several tracts of timber land are very valuable. Read notice in another column.

—Our friend W. H. B. Eisenhuth sent us a copy of the Jamestown (Dakota) Morning Alert. Judging from the general appearance of the paper we infer that the new western town with a historic name is a live, enterprising place—a second Millheim, probably, in the far West.

—Wm. Miller's new smithy near D. A. Musser's foundry, is now complete and ready for business. Mr. Miller is one of the best and most skillful blacksmiths in this section, especially in agricultural implements and machinery. Give him good material and good tools and he will make almost anything, substantial and neat, that can be made out of iron and steel. Custom respectfuly solicited. 2t

—Our townsman, Wm. Kerstetter is now engaged in building a new saw mill for Judge Whitmer on the site of the one recently burned down, near the residence of Fredk. Weaver, below Aaronsburg. Mr. J. K. Snyder, the sawyer, informs us that new mill will be ready for work in about fifteen days.

—Our staunch old democratic friend, Mr. George Shafer, of Madisonburg, made glad our poor heart the other day by bringing us two new subscribers with the cash for advance payments. At that rate he is welcome to come every day.

—The first month of the winter term of the Grammar School closed Dec. 11, with an enrollment of males 15, females 23, total 38; and a total per cent attendance of 81. The following pupils were present every day since admission: G. W. Harter, F. E. Gutelius, Chas. H. Held, John Rupp, J. C. Deininger, Frankie Deininger, Mary M. Lose, Mable Musser, and Ella Contner. The school was visited and encouraged by Prof. D. M. Wolf. Rev. S. G. W. Herold; Directors Dr. D. H, Mingle, Messrs. A. Walter, S. D. Musser, Jacob Gephart, and several others. Patrons and friends of education are cordially invited to visit us. Patrons are respectfully urged to cooperate with the teacher in securing greater regularity of attendance. TEACHER.

St. Elmo Hotel,
Nos. 317 & 319 ARCH ST.,
PHILADELPHIA.
RATES REDUCED TO $2.00 PER DAY.

The traveling public will still find at this Hotel the same liberal provision for their comfort. It is located in the immediate centres of business and places of amusement and the different Rail-Road depots, as well as all parts of the city, are easily accessible by Street Cars constantly passing the doors. It offers special inducements to those visiting the city for business or pleasure.

Your patronage respectfully solicited.

Jos. M. Feger, Proprietor.

—Prof. Kurzenknabe's convention is in full and successful operation. He now has a class of 65, which is on the increase and will probably reach 100 by the close of the convention. Here as elsewhere the Professor's well-known reputation always insures him the fullest success. He is assisted by his wife and his twin sons, who are all accomplished musicians.

The concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings will be rare musical treats, consisting of selections from celebrated operas, accompanied and interspersed by orchestral music, and we hear that they will be largely patronized, not only by our own town and vicinity but also from more distant parts.

—Mr. J. F. Everett, of the big Bee Hive store, Lock Haven, has just returned from the eastern cities with a large stock of dry goods, notions, and general merchandise for the holiday trade. The Bee Hive is one of the largest and altogether the best store in this part of the state, One may travel a long distance before meeting another such excellent conbination of complete assortment of all lines of staple and fancy dry goods and notions, low prices and clever, obliging salesmen. This together with a liberal and systematic policy of advertising is what makes the Bee Hive so widely known and deservedly popular.

—REPORT OF NORTH STREET SCHOOL for month ending Nov. 28th, 1882 (This report could not be inserted last week.)

The progress of the pupils has been fair thus far, while their deportment is better than at first. Parents should more generally require their children to stay at home in the evenings to prepare their lessons.

The school was visited by some of the directors as well as some citizens. There is much room for improvement throughout.

B. F. Edmunds,
Teacher.

DEDICATION.

December 31st, instant, Deo Volente, the chapel of the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church at Millheim, Pa., will be dedicated to the worship of Almighty God, with appropriate ceremonies. Rev. W. E. Fisher, of Centre Hall, will preach the dedicatory sermon in the morning at ten o'clock. Rev. S. Henry, of Mifflinburg, will preach on Saturday evening previous, also on Sabbath evening, and do the soliciting on Sabbath morning.

No don't call us a gentleman and say "'Sbobbeer is geduldich" because we say so and have them to sell. Just try one pair of both or either and you will be convinced that the half has not been told. tf

—It is not necessary to pick our words in mentioning the Philadelphia Times, the prospectus of which journal appears in another column. The Times has got to be a sort of necessity with people of this community and it ought to be with many more. It has many imitators all over the land, but there is really nothing like The Times from Maine to California. We have persuaded ourselves at times that the reason the people like it so much is that it is constantly giving its readers juicy bites from the sunny side of the journalistic peach.

—Another one of our older and well-known citizen has been called away from our midst by the cold hand of death. Mr. Levi Stover, of Aaronsburg, departed this life on Saturday evening the 9th inst. His life-work is done and he has gone to the better land, as we fondly hope and firmly believe. Mr. Stover was an industrious mechanic, a faithful, honest man, a peacable, quiet citizen and a worthy member of the Lutheran church. After life's labor, joys and sorrows, may he rest in peace.

Mr C. C. Cummings was here and we know somebody was glad to see him. Come again, Mr. C.

Quite a number of our people expect to go to Millheim on Christmas to refresh their weary bodies on your Lutheran waffla, chickens and oyters. Sam Patch has cause to know that your ladies will do, up "waffla" brown.

SAM PATCH.

—THE ENTERTAINMENT by the Ladies of the Lutheran congregation here promises to be a big thing, judging from the extensive preparations that are being made and the information daily received of the number of people who expect to come and patronise it. We are authorized to state that a good dinner or supper, consisting of coffee (!) chicken (!!) and waffles (!!!) will be served at 25 cents. Oysters, ice cream, candies and other delicacies at regular prices as elsewhere. No dead heads whatever. The members of the congregation as well as the cooks and waiters will all pay for what they eat. Measures are being made to preserve the strictest order and decorum. Proceeds for the purchase of a bell for the new church. 2t

—Read D. H. Lenker's advertisement in another column. Mr. Lenker is known as a most excellent mechanic as well as a fair and square man to deal with. If you need furniture of any kind you can do as well right at home as you can by going away. It is good policy to patronise home industry, if you can do as well as elsewhere, and that you surely can in this case. 2t

News Miscellany.

Diphtheria in its worst form prevails in many towns throughout the State, and in Philadelphia the increase of the disease is startling. Measures are being taken to prevent its spread and among other precautions, public funerals of those who die from its effect are forbidden.

President Arthur Warned of a Storm.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The President has received a communication from Professor E. Stone Wiggins, LL. D., astronomer of the Canadian Finance Department under date of November 27, 1882, of which the following is a copy: "May it please your Excellency: On the 23d of September last I announced through the Canadian press that a great storm would occur in March next; that it would first be felt in the Northern Pacific; would appear in the Gulf of Mexico on the night of the 9th and—being reflected by the Rockey mountains—would cross this meridian from the west at noon of Sunday, March 11, 1883. No vessel, whatever her dimensions, will be safe out of harbor, and none of small tonnage can hope to survive the tidal wave and fury of this tempest. As the wind will blow from the southeast the planetary force will be sufficient to submerge the lowlands of the American coast, especially those bordering on the Gulf of Mexico and washed by the Gulf Stream, while the air currents for several hundred miles along the east side of the Rockey Mountain range, owing to the great atmospheric pressure in those regions, will spread universal destruction. The New England States will also suffer severely from the winds and floods. No point outside of harbor in the whole area of the Atlantic, esspecially north of the equator, will be a place of safety; for this will be pre eminently the greatest storm that has visited this continent since the days of your illustrious first President. In view of this event, therefore, I take the great liberty of representing to your Excellency the advisability of ordering all United States ships into safe harbors not later than the 5th of March, till this storm be passed.

PATENTS.

Send a rough sketch or a model of your invention to GEORGE E. LEMON, Washington, D. C., and a Preliminary Examination will be made without charge, of all United States patents of the same class of inventions and you will be advised whether or not a patent can be obtained.

If you are advised that your invention is patentable, send $20, to yay Government fee of $15 and $5 for drawings required by the Government. This is payable when application is made. When allowed, the attorney's fee ($25) and the final Government fee ($20) is payable. An attorney whose fee depends on his success in obtaining a Patent will not advise you that your invention is patentable unless it really is, so far as his best judgement can determine; hence, you can rely on the advise given after a preliminary examination is had. DESIGN, PATENTS and the REGISTRATION OF LABELS, TRADE MARKS, AND RE-ISSUES secured. CAVEATS prepared and filed. Applications in revivor of REJECTED, ABANDONED, or FORFEITED CASES made. If you have undertaken to secure your own patent and failed, a skillful handling of the case may lead to success. Send me a written request addressed to the Commissioner of Patents that he recognize GEORGE E. LEMON, of Washington, D. C. as your attorney in the case, giving the title of the invention and about the date of your application. An examination and report will cost you nothing. Remember, this office has been in successful operation since 1865, and reference can be given to actual clients in a most every county in the U. S. Pamphlet relating to Patents free upon requrst.

AGRICULTURE.

TILLAGE AND EVAPORATION.—A few years ago a contemporary announced with great positiveness the discovery that cultivation of the surface soil promotes instead of retarding evaporation, and is therefore labor worse than wasted, so far as it had previously been supposed to help in retainmoisture. Experiments by Professor Stockbridge, of Amherst, were subsequently published, which seemed sufficient to controvert the position above referred to, and to establish the correctness of previous teachings on the subject. And now Dr. Sturtevant, of the State Experiment Station at Geneva, reports the following experiment, which is similar in result to those of Professor Stockbridge, though not conducted in precisely the same manner. The question of drought is one which periodically engages attention, and any means by which its injurious effects may be migitated should certainly be known to the farmer. That cultivation, by forming a loose soil upon the surface which acts as a mulch, conserves the water to the soil, is a fact which is well established, and should be more commonly appreciated. For the purpose of offering numerical values which shall express the influence of cultivation, we have tried the following experiment: Oak boxes of one cubic foot capacity were made of half-inch stuff, and thoroughly soaked with oil. The bottoms being removed, the frame was forced down into the earth in the corn field, and the bottom afterwards put in position. We thus had a foot cube of soil in its natural position. The surface of the earth in one box was left undisturbed, while the surfaces of two boxes were kept cultivated. By weighing these boxes the gain or loss is assumed to measure the evaporation which has taken place from each. From July 26 to August 1, six days, the cultivated soil evaporated at the rate of 906 gallons per acre less than the undisturbed soil, or less 151 gallons daily per acre. From August 1 to August 10, nine days, the cultivated soil evaporated 2367 gallons per acre less than did the undisturbed soil, or less than 263 gallons daily per acre. During the whole period from July 26 to August 10, fifteen days, the saving of water effected through cultivation figured up 212 gallons daily per acre, or expressing these facts in another form, the undisturbed soil lost per acre from July 26 to August 10, 4243 gallons; the cultivated soil 1060 gallons. In calculating our results to the acre by multiplying the evaporation which has taken place from a square foot of surface by 43,560, the unavoidable errors are correspondingly multiplied, and while duplicate series can never be expected to give the same numerical results, yet the one fact becomes unquestionable—that through cultivation we are enabled to conserve to the soil a large amount of water during a drought. Indeed, observation through extended periods of drought, also plainly shows the superiority of fields that have been well cultivated over those where cultivation has been neglected.

CUTTING SEED POTATOES.—The best of farmers differ materially in regard to the best way to prepare seed potatoes for planting. One farmers has obtained the best results from planting whole potatoes. Another has been most successful in cutting his potatoes, giving only one good eye to a cutting. Another has met with the best success with one eye, but the cutting was made deep with a picked pointed knife, so as to give the eye plenty of nourishment before it throws out roots to draw its supplies from the soil. So it seems that potatoes have made fine yields from all styles of cut seed, and from small and large whole potatoes.

The fact is that in a tolerably sandy soil, containing plenty of vegetable matter, with plenty of cowyard manure, and some ashes and superphosphate, and proper cultivation, the yield will be apt to be large in a good potato season if the seed is of the right kind, cut in almost any style, or planted whole.

THE muck or peat of some localities may be applied directly to the land, either fresh dug, if dry enough to haul, in which condition it is best to apply it in the autumn, so that it may be ameliorated by the frosts and thawings of winter, or after such weathering. Other kinds of muck cannot be used advantageously without composting with lime or manure, or white ashes, or some other active substance, while that of some localities applied raw is positively deleterious to the crops of the first year. As a general rule muck may be made most useful in ordinary farm operations by mixing it with manure from the stable, in the cow-yard, the pig-pens, or the sheep-yards, and it is safe to say that the addition of muck of good quality in this way may easily double or triple the value of the manure made upon the farm. That is, a yard capable of furnishing, under ordinary circumstances, 100 loads of manure, may be made to furnish twice or even three times as much, both in quality and value.

OCTOBER is a good time to get out a supply of swamp muck. It is impossible to answer the question as to the exact value of this material as applied to land. The quality of muck varies greatly, some of it not being worth the expense of removing it from the beds, even when this can be done with ease. The fertilizing value of most mucks depends largely upon the nitrogen they contain, and that this element may be available the muck needs to undergo a process of decomposition. The nitrogen must be liberated from its insoluble organic compounds, and form soluble substances, as the nitrates and ammonia compounds. To secure this, muck should be either placed in a heap and subjected to the influence of freezing and thawing—weathering, as it is termed—or be mixed with manure in a compost heap, and there undergo a decomposition, to fit it for use as a fertilizer. At this season the muck beds are usually filled with water, but by beginning at one side, a boat or scow may be used to advantage.

THE English farmers are congratulating themselves that the lean years which had come upon them are now ended. The crops are almost universally good, and thus far the weather—usually so treacherous in this country—has been very favorable for harvest work. In the Southern part of the British Islands the wheat is now nearly all in, but in the northern part of England and south of Scotland they are just in the midst of the harvest. The wheat crop is said to be below the average in yield, but it is really above it, for the so-called average can scarcely be called a just one.

VIOLETS.—Few things are more valued in winter than a bunch of Sweet Violets. Some may now be potted, and they will flower in the window towards spring; or a small bed of them may be made in a frame which should be protected by a mat from severe frost. The same of Pansies.

For a number of years a German papermaker has been utilizing the waste water from his engine, conducting it by ditches to and upon the meadows, adjoining his mill. He asserts that his profits from his grass crop have been trebled.

DOMESTIC.

TOMATO SOUP.—Always use cold water in making all soups; skim well, especially during the first hour. There is a great necessity for thorough skimming, and to help the scum rise, pour in a little cold water now and then, and as the soup reaches the boiling point, skim it off. Use salt at first sparingly, and season with salt and pepper; allow one quart of soup to three or four persons. For tomato soup allow one gallon of stock made from nice fresh beef to three quarts of fresh tomatoes; remove the skin and cut out the hard centre, put through a fine sieve, and add to the stock; make a paste of butter and flour, and, when the stock begins to boil, stir in a half teacup of the paste, taking care not to have it lumpy; boil twenty minutes, seasoning with salt and pepper to taste. Two quarts of the canned tomatoes will answer.

"Durability is better than show." Durability of health is worth more than the wealth of Vanderbilt. Kidney-Wort is man's co-laborer in maintaining health. With healthy liver, bowels and kidneys, men and women will always be in good health. If the bowels are torpid, if piles torment, if the back is full of pain, get a package of Kidney-Wort and be cured without more suffering.

☞ The most brilliant shades possible, on all fabrics are made by the Diamond Dyes. Unequalled for brilliancy and durability. 10 cents.

FORCED TOMATOES.—Two ounces of mushrooms, minced small; a small quantity of parsley, a slice of lean ham chopped small, with a few savory herbs, a little cayenne pepper and salt. Put all the ingredients of this stuffing into a saucepan with a lump of butter, stirring all together until quite tender. Then set away to cool. Have ready some bread crumbs and the yelks of two eggs well beaten. Choose large tomatoes, as near the same size as possible; and cut a slice from the stalk end of each. Take out carefully the seeds and juice, and fill with the mixture. Strew them over with bread crumbs and some melted butter, and bake in an oven until they have a rich color. Serve with baked calf's head or cold veal.

DELEVAN, Wis., Sept. 24, 1878.

GENTS—I have taken not quite one bottle of the Hop Bitters. I was a feeble old man of 78 when I got it. To-day I am as active and feel as well as I did at 30. I see a great many that need such a medicine.
D. BOYCE.

SPICED APPLES.—Spiced apples are very appetizing, and the new and usually almost tasteless early apples can be prepared in this way: Take four pounds of apples (weigh them after they are peeled), two pounds of sugar, half an ounce of cinnamon in the stick, one quarter of an ounce of cloves and one pint of vinegar; let the vinegar, spices and sugar come to a boil; then put in the whole apples and cook them until they are so tender that a broom splint will pierce them easily. These will keep for a long time in a jar. Put a clean cloth over the top of the jar before putting the cover on. Early pears may also be spiced in the same way, and are nice for dinner or tea.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this receipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. Noyes, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

CRABAPPLE MARMALADE.—Marmalade made of the common Siberian crabapple is not to be despised, and for children's lunch or for tea with good bread and butter it is looked upon as a luxury. Stew the apples, skins and all, till they are very soft; mash them, adding light brown sugar to your taste. This may be put up in cans or in little earthen jars and sealed for winter use. Marmalade may also be made of nice peach parings, with now and then a half peach left in. The latter dish is not recommended except when fruit is scarce, and you feel like making the most of every part of it.

PRESERVED GRAPES IN BUNCHES.—Take out the stones from the bunches with a pin, breaking them as little as possible; boil some clarified sugar to nearly candying point; then put in sufficient grapes to cover the bottom of the preserving kettle, without laying them on each other, and boil for nearly five minutes, merely to extract the juice; lay them in an earthen pan and pour the syrup over them; cover with paper, and the next day boil the syrup, skimming it well for five minutes; put in the grapes, let them boil a minute or two; put them in pots, and pour the syrup over them, after which tie down.

FROZEN PEACHES.—Pare and divide large, fresh, ripe and juicy peaches, sprinkle over them granulated sugar, freeze them like ice cream for an hour; remove them just before serving, and sprinkle with a little more sugar. Canned peaches and all kinds of berries may be prepared in the same way.

PEACH PIE.—Line a deep dish with soda biscuit dough, or pie-crust rolled one-fourth of an inch thick, fill with peaches pared, sprinkle with sugar and a little flour, and if not too juicy, add about two teaspoonfuls of water, put on the upper crust, secure the edges and bake. Eat with cream.

PRUNE WHIP.—Sweeten to taste and stew three quarters of a pound of prunes; when perfectly cold add the whites of four eggs beaten stiff, stir all of this together till light; put in a dish and bake twenty minutes; when cold, serve in a larger dish and cover with good cream.

CORN MUSH.—Put a quart of water on to boil; stir a pint of cold milk with one pint of corn meal and one tablespoonful of salt. When the water boils pour in the mixture gradually, stirring well; boil half an hour, stirring constantly.

STUFFED STEAK.—Make a stuffing of bread, herbs, onions, salt and pepper; spread over the steak, which should be an inch thick. Roll it up and tie tightly with cord. Bake or stew slowly for two hours. Serve with brown gravy.

HUMOROUS.

His people were not prompt in paying him his salary, much of which he had to take "in kind." One day a church member asked him to bring Mrs. Stimson to dinner. "Certainly," said Father Stimson, "and I guess I'll put some hay on the wagon when I go back home." "All right," replied the church member; "but bring a one-horse wagon." He came with a wagon in which was a hayrick big enough to hold a haystack. "Is that a one-horse wagon?" asked the parishioner. "Yes," said Father Stimson, "but it's a two-horse hayrick," and he loaded in a ton of hay. He was putting up a gospel tent when a loafer came along and asked him if he was going to have a circus. "Yes," said he, without looking up, "and I want a baboon; how much will you take?" He was Chaplain of the Ninth New York Cavalry, whose Colonel liked to take his regiment through the puddles. One day the Chaplain rode around them, so the Colonel at the close of the drill said to the officers: "If Chaplain Stimson is afraid to ride through muddy water for fear of soiling his clothes I will carry him across the puddles myself." "Thank you," the Chaplain said; "but as the Government provides horses I don't see any reason why I should ride on a jackass."

"No, sir; this is the elevator."

"Does it go up, or down?"

"Both ways, sir."

"Is there any danger of its falling and killing anybody?"

"Perhaps so, Do you wish to try it?"

"I don't know. By the way, where would I go to if I did get in and the whole thing should drop down?"

"That would depend upon your religious belief. Do you, or do you not want to go up?"

"Well, just one more question. Supposing I should—"

But the door slid into its place, and all that the timid man could see was the bottom of the car as it glided out of sight.

Vegetine is now acknowledged by our best physicians to be the only sure and safe remedy for all diseases arising from impure blood, such as scrofula and scrofulous humors.

ONE of Mrs. Grote's proteges was Fanny Ellsler, of whom she had undertaken, in a fit of enthusiasm, to make "an honest woman," and also—somewhat more difficult task—a recognized ornament of London society. It was in the midst of this quixotic experiment that the celebrated dancer took her departure for America, leaving her child, a little girl of 6 years, in Mrs. Grote's care. "All I said to her," said this strange, kind hearted woman, "was: 'Well, Fanny, send the brat to me; I don't ask you whose child it is, and I don't care, so long as it isn't that fool, d'Orsay's."

PAT MALONEY kept a ferry over one of the small Western streams. A crank whooped and hollooed one stormy night for Pat to come and ferry him over the river. As the boat neared the shore he apologized to Pat for calling him out such a night. "That is all right," said Pat; "I make me living with this old boat." But, Pat, I have not a cent of money to pay you with." "Oh, and be jabers, that's it," said Pat, as he quickly pulled for the other shore; "if you have no money it don't matter which side of the river you are on."

Kidney Complaints.
DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS.

The symptoms of an acute attack of inflammation of the kidneys are as follows: Fever, pain in the small of the back, and thence shooting downward; numbness of the thighs, vomiting, usually at first a deep red color of the urine, which becomes pale and colorless as the disease increases, and is discharged very often with pain and difficulty; costiveness, and some degree of colic. In chronic diseases of the kidneys the symptoms are pain in the back and limbs, dryness of the skin, frequent urinations (especially at night), general dropsy, headache, dizziness of sight, indigestion, and palpitation of the heart, gradual loss of strength, paleness and puffiness of the face, cough and shortness of breath.

In diseases of the kidneys the VEGETINE gives immediate relief. It has never failed to cure when it is taken regularly and directions followed. In many cases it may take several bottles, especially cases of long standing. It acts directly upon the secretions, cleansing and strengthening, removing all obstructions and impurities.—A great many can testify to cases of long standing having been perfectly cured by the VEGETINE, even after trying many of the known remedies which are said to be expressly for this disease.

Kidney Complaints.

CINCINNATI, O., March 19, 1871.

H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir:—I have used your VEGETINE for some time, and can truthfully say it has been a great benefit to me; and to those suffering from diseases of the Kidneys, I cheerfully recommend it.
Respectfully, O. H. SMITH.
Attested to by K. B. Ashfield, Druggist,

CINCINNATI, O., April 19, 1877.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:
I have suffered several years with the Kidney Complaint, and was induced to try VEGETINE. I have taken several bottles of your preparation, and I am convinced it is a valuable remedy. It has done me more good than any other medicine. I can heartily recommend it to all suffering from Kidney Complaints.
Yours respectfully, J. S. McMILLEN, are never imitated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value. As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprung up and began to steal the notices in which the press and the people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop," or "Hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or "Hops" in their name or in any way connected with them or their name, are imitations or counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Use nothing but genuine Hop Bitters, with a bunch or cluster of green Hops on the white label. Trust nothing else. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitations or counterfeits.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flushes, low spirits and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from "torpid liver," or "biliousness." In many cases of "liver complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures. At all drug stores.

As a Newport clergyman was last week marrying two fashionable young people he came to the clause in the service where the bride promises "to love, honor, and obey." She was silent. There was an awkward pause. The clergyman asked the question again, No answer. The clergyman said it called for an answer. But it was not until the bridegroom nudged her with his elbow and a good deal of emphasis that she faintly said: "I will." She had rashly declared that she never would say it, but when it came to bringing the affair to a full stop had to think better of it.

What it did for an Old Lady.

COSHOCTON STATION, N. Y., Dec. 28, 1878

GENTS—A number of people had been using your Bitters here, and with marked effect. In one case, a lady of over seventy years, had been sick for years, and for the past ten years has not been able to be around half the time. About six months ago she got so feeble she was helpless. Her old remedies, or physicians, being of no avail, I sent to Deposit, forty-five miles away, and got a bottle of Hop Bitters. It improved her so she was able to dress herself and walk about the house. When she had taken the second bottle she was able to take care of her own room and walk out to her neighbor's, and has improved all the time since. My wife and children also have derived great benefit from their use.
